THE GAP IN THE SYSTEM

The gap between potential and opportunity is real — and costly. Across India, especially in rural and semi-urban regions, thousands of young people face a frustrating paradox:

- * Educated, but unemployed.
- Eager, but unskilled.
- Hopeful, but disconnected from opportunity.

At the same time, companies across sectors are struggling to find reliable, job-ready talent that meets industry expectations — causing delays, high attrition, and mismatched hires.

The result?

A growing disconnect between what job seekers offer and what employers need.
